Maritime Universities Plan More Accommodation for Men and Women Who Don't Traffick for Cops and Gowns

By IAN MACNEIL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, May 2 (CP)—It plans to receive members of the Maritime universities are indicative of the general trend throughout Canada, some 4,000 Canadian co-educational and women will not have to worry about the welcome they will receive from institutions in charge of the Maritime education.

Working in cooperation with the federal government, the National Conference of Canadian Universities has given the question of post-war college education a lot of thought. "It is clear," Archbishop Morrison said, "that we will have to make provision for our returned men looking for higher education. We may receive government aid when the time comes, but we will have to take care of the preliminary preparations ourselves."

In a drive launched last year, the Antigonish university gathered $100,000 to be used for additional laboratory and class-room facilities, a new library, residential accommodation, enlargement of the chapel, and expansion of adult education.

A post-war planning committee, composed of prominent Nova Scotians, has been formed and the adult education program of the University has been expanded.

In Projecton, N.B., the University of New Brunswick is preparing certain plans for the reception of co-educational students. Across the University of Victoria—affiliated with the Canadian Legion—has been formed with the aim of assisting returned men in making their start at the University.

The other Maritime universities have reported similar intentions.

Bond Sales in County Behind Average Needed to Ensure Objective Will Be Reached

Radical county with only 40 per cent of its objective in the eighth Victory Loan achieved, today added 40th out of the 60 units in the province of Ontario, it was announced here Tuesday evening by speakers on the county campaign committee who pointed out bond sales were substantially behind the average needed to assure the objective would be reached.

In contrast to Hastings record in the eighth Victory Loan, her neighbor county of Prince Edward with over 100 per cent of the objective reached, is leading the entire province, while Northumberland in the west has achieved slightly more than 90 per cent.

Official canvass sales to date in Hastings are only $770,700 as compared with $800,000 for the corresponding date in the seventh Victory Loan. This is a decrease in bond sales of $229,300 compared with the last Victory Loan and the county objective (this loan is approximately $300,000 greater).

It is just that the interest of the people is not being demonstrated as in other loans," stated county organizers yesterday as the county's comparatively poor showing in the eighth Victory Loan was announced. "This year—this our canvassers are being asked to call back. They want to think that with victory in Europe in sight there is no further need for money. They do not realize the tremendous amount of money which will be needed for Canada's rehabilitation program and for the fight against the Japanese."

Hastings will there be any holiday needed for the long-awaited V-E Day is announced. "Other places of business have announced a holiday following the announcement of victory in Europe, but not so the Victory Loan," stated campaign officials. "Considering the present plans to meet the return of service men and the procurement of funds to carry on this work now is the number one problem."

county standing it is imperative that canvassers be continuously on the job if the county objective is to be reached.

"The fact-out of thankfulness and appreciation that the war in Europe is over, the day following V-E Day should start up a record in bond sales by county residents."

Members of the armed forces overseas are doing a splendid job in purchase of Victory Bonds as well as continuing their shopping up of German armor in Lorient, it was stated. In the 7th loan $100,000 was subscribed in 30,000 overseas applications while to date in the 8th loan overseas armed services personnel have already subscribed $120,000 in 11,000 applications.

Armed services personnel in the county have also shown their patriotic fire response with 66 per cent of their objective already subscribed and tied all county sections.

Subscriptions in Belleville stand at 44 per cent of the objective with 44 per cent of the fifth chapter. In the general canvass section Belleville leads the county and has made a fair showing but other canvass districts are far below the level making for achievement of their respective objectives by the end of the Victory Loan.

Canadian Bombers Thrown Out of Work but Boast Proud Record in Battle

By FRANK BACHROFF
(C.P. Staff Writer)

LONDON, May 3.—(C.P. Cable)—Most of the bombing offensive against Germany has been carried out by British and American bombers. Canadian bombers have been thrown out of work but they boast a proud record in battle.

For the first time since the ICAEW group went into the line more than two years ago, its giant bomber force, the Lancaster, was withdrawn from the front lines. The group was withdrawn from the front lines because of a shortage of fuel.

It has been reported that the air force in Britain after the operation of bombers will be an international body, but the role to be played by Canada is not likely to be a large one, and a major part of the force is expected to be made up of the lighter type of aircraft—fighters and fighter-bombers.

It seems a Trenton resident appeared on a charge of drunken driving and pleaded guilty, receiving the mandatory sentence of 1 day in jail. Under the Highway Traffic Act, any convicted person's driver's license automatically is to be suspended for three months also. However, when the court asked the convicted man for his driver's license (that's where the trouble arose, he did not possess one).

"Well, I don't suppose the court can suspend something that doesn't exist," suggested Crown Attorney R. G. Donnan.

"Maybe he should have been charged with operating a motor car without a license as well," added Magistrate T. T. Williams.

"This situation wouldn't have arisen if my client hadn't been arrested for drunk driving," interrupted R. A. Pringle, counsel for the defence.

After a short discussion Magistrate Williams decreed the matter should be left in the hands of the Highway Department, who would receive a detailed copy of the original charges and the subsequent findings of no licence.

They have done their jobs without fanfare and without flinching at hardship and danger.

They have had ships sunk from under them, and always the survivors have gone back. Back to their jobs . . . Back to their duty.

They are the men of the Merchant Service. They wear no uniform. They are under no compulsion except the call of conscience and duty. Yet not once in this war has a ship failed to sail for the lack of a crew.

Like the men of the Merchant Service, we on the home front wear no uniforms. Like them, our only compulsion is the call of duty.

It is our duty and our privilege to support Canada's war effort to the utmost of all our resources.

'Bud' Woodley Glad to Be Home After 20 Months Indian Service

Appreciative of his opportunity to be a globe trotter even if it be the owner of the duty as a member of the Air Force, Cpl. Arthur "Bud" Woodley, son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Woodley, Blenheim Ave., is glad to get back to Belleville after spending the last two years in equipment unit with the R.C.A.F. in Ceylon.

A member of the Air Force for the past four years Cpl. Woodley failed to make his crew as result of slight eye trouble and was transferred to the ground force. After brief service in England he volunteered for service in Ceylon and for 20 months served on equipment in the R.C.A.F. "Tanker" Squadron against the submarine patrol in the Indian Ocean.

Transferred to the Indian Ocean he was on duty at the island of Ceylon, a mountainous island, it took Cpl. Woodley's convey 18 days to make the voyage from England to India by way of Cape Town, and Durban, in South Africa. Durban he may remember a traveler of a typical American city, and next to Belleville would be the choice of his future home.

Although with the advent of the modern contraptions such as motor cars and buses are beginning to find their way into Ceylon, native life is still very primitive, according to the Belleville Almanac. Entire families live in one-roomed mud and grass huts with fishing nets and rice growing and coconuts being the principal industries.

The R.C.A.F. squadron was stationed at the extreme southern tip of Ceylon, 80 miles south of Kandy, the principal city. There is only one railroad on the island.

Prevalent Indian tribes in Ceylon is the Sinhalese, with the Tamils, a lower caste tribe brought in from south India doing all the "dirty" work. The Burghers, a white class of Portuguese and Dutch hold practically all government positions and act as employers. There is little for leave.

During Ceylon service of population as being areas of terrific malaria due to the question of drink fish and lack of proper sanitation. Cpl. Woodley stated that service personnel usually "hook in" the night when taking their leave and returning. At such times there were the guests of managers of tea plantations in their comfortable and comfortable bungalow.

Business in the pre-monsoon region with creation the method of disposing of the dead. Roadside rains which were likened to turning a lap were experienced by service personnel who then managed to get shower baths in the open swimming favorite spot.

Surfboard riding and swimming is the principle sport. This enjoyment is, considered, however, by the ever present flies and mosquitoes, and other insects characteristic of tropical regions. King Cobra keep mainly to the swampy regions.

Quinine supplies used by the squadrons came principally from Canada although many salaries were shipped in from Australia in the distributed state. Money used is rupees and cents, the same system as in Canada, although the relative value is only about one third as much.

As is customary among many tropical tribes, the women do practically all the work. Bullocks are used as the principle beast of burden with elephants being used for heavy jobs.

Hand labor was used entirely to construct an emergency landing strip a short distance from the R.C.A.F. squadron base, it taking two years to complete the job. Road

Thurlow & Tyndinaga Teachers Hold Meeting

On Tuesday evening, May 1, the Thurlow and Tyndinaga Teachers Association along with a considerable number of invited guests met at Point Anne School. The President, Mr. E. M. Bird, acted as chairman. After a short routine business meeting Mr. Harry Pound, the Township School Association Officer was asked to speak to the teachers. He gave them an outline of the chief reasons for absence from school as he found them throughout the yearling. He also stated that those Permit and Employment Certificates were issued to children over 14 years of age after a thorough investigation of all existing conditions at home and at school.

Mr. Bert Charlton, School Attendance Officer of Point Anne, then spoke briefly to the teachers. Mrs. Madeline Jones of Belleville then gave a very interesting and sharply instructive address on Group Hospitalization as sponsored by the Ontario Government and approved by the Medical Association.

She outlined many outstanding advantages of the scheme and named many examples of satisfied groups throughout the province. The reasons for remaining and for abolishing our present system of license examinations formed the basis for a very lively discussion period.

Mr. McPherson, S.A. School Inspector, then spoke to the teachers giving an outline of Chapter 3 of the new, revised "The Education" mandating the reasons given in this book for the removal of examinations as we now know them. Mrs. Hadden invited the teachers to hold their next meeting at Chancery school.

The Women Teachers' Federation then met for a short business meeting. Luncheon was then served. A vote of thanks was then rendered the staff of Point Anne School, who had extended their hospitality for the evening in those present.

R.C.N.'S BIG JOB WAS ATLANTIC CONVOY

Little but tough were the corvettes which formed the mainstay of the Royal Canadian Navy during the Battle of the Atlantic. Above is pictured one of the early corvettes. Armament, endurance and size of complement have been steadily increased throughout the war.

When Canada entered the war her only effective fighting ships, other than four small bow-torpedo minisweepers, were six Never class destroyers. One of these was lost by collision. In the first year of the war and the others went on to play a strenuous role in the North Atlantic campaign. Shown here is the HMCS SAGUENAY, now a training ship.

On the morning of June 6, 1944, Canadians at home were to hear over their radios that the invasion of continental Europe had begun. The R.C.N. had been preparing for months for the invasion and when it came more than 100 ships and nearly 10,000 officers and men took part in the morning of the invasion of Normandy. Here is pictured the rearward of the invasion fleet heading for France. These are Landing Craft Infantry of the R.C.N. laden with weapons and troops of the Third Canadian Division.

While Canada's losses in the war at sea were comparatively light, thousands of homes across the country were saddened by such losses as occurred. Even more were made glad by the fact that their loved ones had survived the loss of their ships. Much of the work for the great number of new airmen was given to the life jacket developed by the Royal Navy which is seen here worn by survivors of the minisweeper HMCS CHATAGUAY, torpedoed in the North Atlantic.

The year 1944 saw the acquisition by the Royal Canadian Navy of its first modern cruiser HMCS UGANDA. A fully modern cruiser displacing 8,000 tons with main armament of nine six-inch guns, UGANDA is already serving in the Pacific.

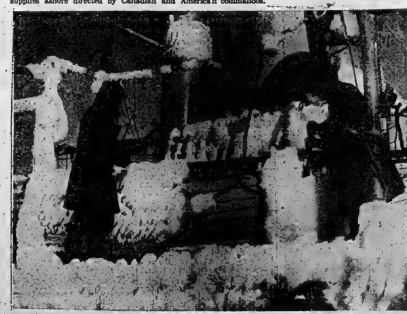

An eye-witness sight, denied to ocean travellers in peace time, is the vast array of merchant vessels in their slow steady march against the hazards that is a trade convoy. The greatest convoy of the war, 477 merchant ships carrying over 1,800,000 tons of cargo was escorted to the United Kingdom by Canadian warships without loss.

Canada's big industry landing ship, HMCS PRINCE DAVID and PRINCE HENRY, had important jobs in the invasion of Normandy. Southern France and Oran. In this picture the assault landing craft carried on the davits of these ships can be seen speeding toward the shore.

Here, nestled against the rocky shore line of a spit off the coast of Southern France are assault landing craft from a Canadian industry landing ship. In the above photo German prisoners carry supplies ashore directed by Canadian and American commandos.

Ships at sea in war time have other hazards to face than enemy attack. To fit one of the greatest of these, for the added tonnage may seriously impair the stability of the ship. The above picture shows the de-masted bridge of a corvette as a Canadian base.

SMALL SHIPS HELPED SPEED END OF THE EUROPEAN WAR.

The Royal Canadian Navy has escorted, or helped escort, convoys which safely carried 222,000,000 deadweight tons of shipping across the North Atlantic. In recent months these shipments have averaged over 4,000,000 tons.

Canadian warships have destroyed, or shared in the destruction of at least 23 enemy submarines; have probably destroyed 8 others.

Canadian warships have sunk, or shared in the sinking, of at least 44 enemy merchant vessels and the severe damage of 26 others. One enemy ship has been captured.

In the summer of 1944, the R.C.N. provided 100 per cent of close escort for all trade convoys from North America to the United Kingdom.

During this period it also provided warships which made up about thirty per cent of all support force groups in the North Atlantic.

The largest convoy of the war—161 ships carrying more than 1,000,000 tons of cargo—was safely escorted across the North Atlantic by Canadian warships.

In the summer of 1943, minisweepers swept enemy mines from the mouth of Halifax Harbor so efficiently that convoy sailings continued with no appreciable interruption.

Ships or personnel of the R.C.N. have taken part in the invasions of North Africa, Sicily, Italy, Northern France, Southern France and Greece. They also participated in the landings at Dieppe and with United States forces which landed in the Aleutians.

More than 100 Canadian ships and some 10,000 officers and men participated in the invasion of Normandy.

The Canadian cruiser UGANDA is now in the South Pacific and it has been announced that a second cruiser, aircraft carrier, destroyers and frigates will also serve in the Pacific area.

The R.C.N. has grown from 1,774 men and 17 ships at the outbreak of war to 90,000 men and 6,000 Wrens on 939 ships, 373 of which are fighting ships.

A total of 23 warships have been lost by enemy action, or through hazards of war or sea. Casualties number 1,772 dead; 394 wounded; 87 prisoners of war; 6 missing.

ASKS MANDATE TO WIN STRUGGLE IN PACIFIC AREA

Hon. C. D. Howe Tells of Aim to Establish Peace of Good Will

Ottawa, May 1.—(CP)—Munitions Minister Howe, saying he was speaking "at an hour when we are all expecting an announcement that the war in Europe is ended," said on Friday night the Liberal party was asking Canada's electorate for "a new mandate — to win the war in the Pacific to establish a peace of good will, an enduring peace founded on sound economic grounds, and to reorganize our Canadian economy."

Opening a series of free-lance all-party political speeches over a Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network, Mr. Howe said in a prepared address it seemed probable the accumulated ravages of the war period will bring about an abnormal demand for consumer goods, which will threaten price inflation.

It would be necessary to continue the government's stabilization policy into the early post-war years. Every effort will be made to check inflation in those years.

Of restrictive controls on acquisition of materials, Mr. Howe said: "No other country has been able to protect its essential requirements as effectively as has Canada. For the most part, those controls have been based on scarcity, and will be removed as soon as the supply situation permits."

Plans for Industry

Most Canadian industries have plans for radio expansion, and to encourage this kind of provision has already been made for changing, as current expense or writing off over a period of years against taxable income, all expenditures and investments made in research facilities.

There was to be "a quite different kind of policy designed to encourage the increase of private investment to a high and stable level," and a revision of the tax structure "to take the burden of taxation off the shoulders of the expansion of our national economy."

One of the main aims of the research Council would be expanded research and development work effectively with the research work of the universities, other government laboratories and industry.

Restrictive public utilities services, regulations in force during the war will disappear as soon as possible, but the passenger service will be expanded in scope and improved in quality to meet post-war requirements.

High degree of mobility of labor. The Minister said there was to be "a high degree of mobility of labor between occupations and between jobs and places." Employment offices will be by institutions in the period of demobilization, and for that period their work will be closely correlated with that of the veterans department.

Labor would be represented on portward reconstruction committees and have an important part to play in formulating reconstruction plans.

The Government will give particular attention to policies designed to develop basic industries. Development and conservation of the resources of the country will be one of the demands of war must be maintained.

Improvement of Transportation. "It was necessary to plan forward vigorously in improving transportation between northern regions and in carrying out scientific exploration and survey."

To create employment the government would encourage speedy conversion of war industries to peacetime production, facilitate the re-establishment of peacetime industries for Canadian exports, participate in rebuilding devastated countries and in supplying food and clothing to destitute peoples and "use the great possibilities of our surplus into peacetime as rapidly as possible."

3 Nazi Officers Seen Drinking in Montreal Hotel

Montreal, May 1.—(CP)—Three Nazi officers, prisoners of war, recently drunk beer in a mid-town tavern here and only their rapid exit through a side door prevented a make after midnight discovery of their presence by the establishment.

Maj. V. W. Furwastler, regional commander in chief of war camps, last night said the "affair" was being investigated, but he told reporters he could not confirm it.

The tavern manager, J. Porter, explained that the prisoners of war were in the tavern at the "noon rush hour" and "we had no way of telling who they were." He added that his waiters refused to serve the Nazis any more beer and ordered them out from the premises at once as their identity was discovered.

One of the Nazi officers were taken to a waiting station wagon in the street through a side door by a woman's guard who was with them.

RECTOR TO COTTAGE
Cottaged, he told, he had no home. "Because he will not have a home," he said, "he must be a drifter." But, Arthur Smith is moving out of his 10-room, rocky into a cottage which used to be rented at three shillings off each a week.

"Sorry to bother you..."

The wards of the Military Hospital are silent. Dim night lights keep vigil over long rows of beds. In every bed a Canadian boy has taken a furlough from pain in the blessed oblivion of sleep.

As the electric clock points to midnight, the silence is broken by a flurry of movement. Doctors and nurses hurry to a bed at the far end of the ward. Screens are swiftly wheeled into place.

A few boys awake, and propped on elbows, peer through the half-light. They know the meaning of those white barriers. They know that life and death have locked in final combat.

The Padre strides quickly through the ward. As he approaches the Doctor shakes his head and steps back. A nurse rearranges the pillows with gentle hands. Then the Padre is alone with a boy far from home. Against the white pillows his damp curly hair looks vividly alive.

"I'm glad you came, Padre," he whispers. "Will you read me something?" Then almost as an afterthought he adds, "I'm dying..."

The Padre could only open his worn Bible and seek blindly for the 23rd Psalm:

"The Lord is my shepherd:
I shall not want..."

As the gracious words of the Psalm whisper out, the boy's lips move in unison. Then the Padre prays—a short prayer for an airman on his flight to God. Peace, like a benediction, lingers on the pallid face. After a short silence, the boy looked at the Padre.

"I'm sorry to bother you... so late at night," he murmured.

He died as the first light of dawn filtered into the hospital ward.

He died thinking of others. As you live, do you stop to think of the thousands of young men who face death daily—for you? Can your war effort compare with theirs? Can you ever say, "I think I've done enough!"

Think of these men when the Victory Bond Salesman calls on you. Yours cannot be a token purchase—it must be an all-out effort. The most you can buy is the least you can do.

• This is the true story of a young airman from Southern Alberta as told by his Padre.

United States War Department has announced that 700 transport planes capable of moving 10,000 men across the Atlantic each month, would be assigned to aid in the task of re-deployment after V-E day. The announcement was made on the official "Army Hour" program broadcast by NBC. The War Department spokesman said evacuation of U.S. troops from Europe would take at least a year, and that half of the troops moved from Europe to the Pacific would be given furloughs in the United States.

U.S. Expected to Leave Powerful Air Arm in Europe for Policing Duties

By HENRY B. JAMESON

London, May 7. (AP)—All indications here point to the fact that the United States army is preparing to retain a strong air arm in Europe for police and transport duties long after the end of the war.

Indian Pair End Southern Odyssey

By ADELIAIDE M. LARICH
Canadian Press Correspondent
Midland, Ont., May 7 (CP)— and Sharrow, Newbold, Indian medicine man formerly of this district, and Prisoner Francis Flower Newquado, his Indian consort, have returned here after 15 years spent among Indian tribes in the southern United States.

Sharrow — and the Prisoner, daughter of an Osage chief, chief, started their travels when doctors said the Indian woman had to go south for her health.
"It's too old to be travelling now," the Prisoner said explaining their return to this district where Sharrow will carry on the trade of gathering and mixing medicinal herbs which he learned as a youth in his tribe.

The couple have brought back with them a pet monkey which accompanied them on their travels through Florida, Arizona and California. With their long bearded hair, high-headed riding boots and the little blond monkey, the Indians have attracted considerable attention on the streets here.

Sharrow wears a 12-dollar pontogen, several of Arkansas, and the Prisoner wears an unusual hat decorated with long trailing plumes.
The Prisoner has picked up a southern drawl in her travels which adds a hearty note to her accounts of their adventures looking the continent.

They made many friends among the tribes they stayed with in the south.
"That is how it should be," said Prisoner Francis Flower, "since there are no other tribes, and if you leave the tribe you must come back to it."

In many ways their homeliving was a sad one. Many of their old friends had died during their absence and they are no longer known.

The Prisoner's first job on reaching Midland was to find her home comfortably settled. She plans to go to the Indian reserve at Midland, then to nearby Orlino where she has friends. After that she will return for him.

One-Man Battle
Staged by Soldier
Teggenhausen, Germany, May 7
— (AP) — William Pridemore, 32-year-old British driver whose father died at Dunkirk, went A.V.R. to stage such a savage one-man venue against the Germans that even battle-hardened front-line troops are talking in surprise.
He returned to America from the front three in five days after his showing exploits:

Feeling on a German tank, he killed a German army truck, driving 25 miles into German lines and one mile from the Russian and slicing back German staff dependence.
Capturing 80 Germans, leading them in his truck and driving them back to hand over to the Americans.
Killing another 30 or 35.
"I only got shot at four or five times," he said. "When any German discovered I was British, I was killed them before they could start anything."

Paris a City
Paris, May 7 (CP) — In Paris today some women demonstrate in the streets against the food shortage and others flock to fashion shows to place orders for expensive clothes.
There is considerable discontent among the people, but it doesn't lack the spirit of cooperation in the fashion industry. Even those in short of money are looking for a well-dressed woman, much as the fashion shows are helping the economy again. Paris is the heart of the fashion world.

Who are the women who attend fashion shows and pay 200 to 500 for tailored suits in these times of hard dollars?
They number about 15,000 and are known as "Paris Paris".
The fashionable set of the capital.
They are of the old aristocracy,
some are wives of wealthy industrialists and business men. Some are spending money made during German occupation.

They are from the classes which once spent a great deal of money on automobiles, travel and many other luxuries, which today are unobtainable, even for millionaires.
But one can still spend money on elaborate clothes.

Business Closed.
The fashion houses which cater to these women are doing a good business, but have had a hard struggle during the last four years and still must fight for existence.
Despite wartime restrictions, shortages of suitable materials and other handicaps, the fashion industry kept going through the war.
Business things have happened.
Some of the best pre-war customers, new customers, are waiting as satisfied.

There is tremendous interest in fashions this year. The main reason is there are not so many other attractions. But the total production of the fashion houses is only about 80 per cent of the pre-war level, due to lack of facilities to obtain enough fabrics. About 25 fashion houses are in existence here, some having started during the war.

The average Parisian is proud that Paris has been the fashion centre of the world and wants to hold that position. To hold it is more than just fancy clothes for rich women—it represents civilized art and employment for thousands.

With Three-Hitter

By JACK RABD
St. Louis ended the season's first year long hot brothers today after the stretch between Washington, 7-1, in the first seasonal tilt of the season.
It was against the Senators pitched the American League champion, Nelson-Pettit, and a year ago and, apparently, the season was looking the same it could pull out of the second half of the long home stand.

Nelson Pettit, the ace of the club who was the "wiper" for the previous last season, turned in his best job of the season with a triple threat victory.

"It would have been a one-sided affair for George Case's side in the first was the only safety net for Pettit's perfect game with another one runner, Matt Riddle, who finished with a hit, but also a single.

Riddle's outfielder, Fred Martin, counted heavily in Pettit's victory.

The Canadian people will receive news at the end of the European war with feelings which cannot be put into words. It is not only a time of joy but also a time of sorrow. The King and his family are in a state of mourning.

It is time for reflection and resolution, he said. The Japanese aggression must be defeated and the nations crushed.

The last thing we can do is to go on longer after the guns are fired," he said. "But we must not let the struggle we cannot say we have won from the war. We should remember the day today."

The people of Canada — like the people of the United States — will receive the news of the end of the European war with feelings not only of joy but also of sorrow. It is a time of those who died to make this day possible, of those who died in the service of those who still fight on in other wars where the world is still at peace.

We realize that the righteous war which we fought in 1914-18 has triumphed, but this is not the end of the world. There is still time for reflection and resolution. We must resolve the nations to be defeated and the nations to be ever crushed.

We must resolve the nations to be defeated and the nations to be ever crushed. We must resolve the nations to be defeated and the nations to be ever crushed.

We must resolve the nations to be defeated and the nations to be ever crushed. We must resolve the nations to be defeated and the nations to be ever crushed.

We must resolve the nations to be defeated and the nations to be ever crushed. We must resolve the nations to be defeated and the nations to be ever crushed.

Workers Heartened
By Heavy Purchases
Of Individual Buyers

Ottawa, May 7. (CP)—Canada's eighth Treasury Loan, valued at $100,000,000, was being sold in the third and last week with loan buyers heartened by the heavy purchases by individual buyers.

It is believed that for the first 12 days of the three-week drive amounted to a cumulative total of $100,000,000. At the end of the comparable period in last summer's drive, the total was $100,000,000.

Collective for individual purchases in the eighth loan is $100,000,000, half of the over-all national objective. Cumulative figures for the first 12 days of the current campaign stand at $10,000,000, against $10,000,000 of the same stage in the seventh loan.

While some individual purchases in comparison with the subscriptions in the last loan were reported from various provinces, the Treasury gain was registered in Quebec which had a margin of $8,000,000 over comparable figures of individual purchases in the seventh loan campaign.

"We were waiting for him to ring the bell," said Benny, "and he didn't come. This is a real time for you to check over my check book for me, William. The bank's statement shows a larger balance than my own figure, and a complicated addition like this isn't very likely to make a mistake in anybody else's favor, you see."

"After supper I'll feel more comfortably disposed for a job like that," said Benny, "and you'll have to wait for me, William. The bank's statement shows a larger balance than my own figure, and a complicated addition like this isn't very likely to make a mistake in anybody else's favor, you see."

WELSHMAN LEADS CLEVELAND CHOIR TO MUSICAL FAME

Dr. Charles D. Dave Plans to Take "Famous" Orpheus Chorus on Goodwill Tour of Britain and Russia

By CARL E. DAYTON
(Associated Press Writer)
Cleveland, May 9. (AP)—Charles D. Dave, a choral conductor who holds singing for non-musicians is a greater responsibility than performing for distinguished audiences, will be taking some friends to his native Wales one day soon.
The friends are 80-some members of the world-renowned Orpheus choir of Cleveland, Ohio, who have taken first place in the national choral competition at Wales, 1939.
Dave, who has been in the choral field professionally for 20 years, is the director of the Orpheus Chorus and eight other musical and church choruses, including the "Famous" choir and a group of good friends.

ACCEPTING MUNICH NAZI-SURRENDER

Major Kenneth A. Young of the Third Infantry Division, U. S. 7th Army, accepts the formal surrender of Munich and is defending soldiers at the front.

It reflects Dave's instructions prior to a concert in Cleveland, "I want you men to sing your best." "Not because there is a crowd of some artists and strong grown men there, but because there may be some poor soldiers on the back stage who otherwise would not get a chance to hear the Orpheus." That's your good responsibility.

Trenton, Special — Addressing the Trenton and District Trades and Labor Council at its meeting, J. R. O'Rourke, local journalist expressed confidence that the forces of labor in Olnah, having played a most vital part in the war effort and the achievement of victory for allied arms, would be found in the vanguard of leaders of the peace in post-war years. By virtue of its great contribution to the war the heroes of organized labor have earned the right to sit in the councils of the nations and express their views on vital matters of great importance and concern in the post-war world, the speaker

Mr. Morrison urged that the building of a greater and more prosperous Canada after the war, the utmost efforts be made by employer and employee to eliminate the causes of industrial difficulties by peaceful means and work hand in hand for great harmony and co-operation for the common good of mankind. It was his belief that the only way to live that the maximum contribution to the sum total of human happiness might be forthcoming. In the world of tomorrow, he said, the only way will have to be a greater appreciation of human values, and the worth of the individual. In their relations with their employees, captains of industry must seek, not by application of the principles of the Golden Rule, while the worker, on the other hand, must be willing to co-operate to the fullest extent possible for the good of the community as a whole.

Trenton, Special — Elaborate plans for the annual Youth Day in Trenton, sponsored by the Trenton Rotary Club, will be held this month. Plans have been made for a parade and call for the popular Youth Hobby Fair for boys and girls of all ages to be held in Canterbury Hall, King Street, starting at 7 in the evening. Many entries for this fair are expected by Jack Ouff, Chairman of the Hobby Fair Committee.

The parade this year is to be bigger and better than ever. Many outside bands will be on hand, also mounted and provincial police. Boy Scouts and girls, school children, representatives of the fire and police departments, and others, forming up at College Street School. A long list of prizes has been offered for the Corporal Richardson was who before enlistment a member of the Trenton Boxing Club and popularly known as "The Fighting Fireman" was in the line of duty for six months, missing shortly after he broke out. Though happy to be back with his family and friends in Trenton, Corporal Richardson said that he would like to have been in Germany when the grand finale came to the war in Europe.

With V-E day announcements occurring in on Monday morning, thousands of people thronged into the centre of the town for celebrations. The official parade ceremonies were held—thousands lined up in the informal parades and participating far into the night. Thereafter, however, saw a far different train of thought in the activities of the community. From early morning thousands gathered at the local courtyards. While Roman Catholic and Anglican churches held early morning services, a joint Protestant service was held in King St. Andrew's Church at 11 a.m. The service was so overflowing, that with loud speakers the sermon spilled over the overflow. Attending in the pews were veterans of the present war and the Great War, also Other

They went into the joint services of Rev. J. D. Martin, of King St. Methodist Church, Rev. J. O. McKee of Grace United, Rev. J. C. Macdonald of the Anglican, Rev. R. C. McLean of St. Andrew's Presbyterian, and Captain Holmes of the Aviation Army.

From the police department came high praise for the citizens of Trenton and surrounding district, who poured into the town for the celebration. It was very gratifying to the police the way the public conducted itself. Not one serious accident was reported though there were hundreds of cars and trucks on the streets. No damage was done to property and it was necessary to lay even one wire for improvement.

The War Today— Pacific War in Two Phases, Blow at Japan, Struggle in China

By DWIGHT MACKENZIE
(The Toronto News Analyst)

The war against Japan is divided into two phases — the assault on the Japanese home islands — which have been in the grip of an American bombing torpedo since yesterday.

day — and the struggle in China, and the further the Allies progress, the more apparent it becomes that these phases might become distinct from each other.

That is by way of saying that it is possible — although one can't know it as a probability at this time — that they might be able to force the surrender of Japan proper and still have the vast task of beating the formidable enemy military machine on the continent. In any event, this is a contingency for which we must be prepared.

Much of course depends on what the Allies can do in the Pacific. At present, the Allies are especially at variance in the Pacific, the way it looks now, it may be a great deal easier to force surrender of the Japanese mainland than to beat 200,000 Japanese soldiers out of their trenches in China and Manchuria.

Maybe the capitulation of the Japanese would mean the end of the war, but the Allies are not so sure of all the forces on the continent. That is the big question and it's one we can't answer until the Allies have taken on Japan. This column long ago pointed out the possibility that the Japanese would invade China and Manchuria.

Maybe they would try to establish an empire for themselves on the continent even though ordered to surrender by the Allies.

Japan's Head on Fire

The argument against this is the Japanese spirit and his people. He is a god. Many observers doubt whether the Japanese will surrender, would go against left orders after they had surrendered and thereby perpetrate their place in the hereafter. It is possible that the Japanese is associated with the shirone of the Allies Request Meeting for Return Of Prisoners

By JAMES M. LONG
Allied Advance Headquarters, Rome, May 14 (AP)—The task of removing approximately 135,000 British and American war prisoners from the Russian zone of occupation in Germany could be accomplished by air transport in from two to four weeks, it was declared today.

Allied supreme headquarters had requested a meeting with the Russians to arrange for the return of the prisoners, but no reply has been received. Soviet approval would be necessary before air evacuation could be employed.

Best available estimates at this time show approximately 200,000 British and 150,000 American war prisoners in Germany. Nearly half are believed to be in the Russian zone, presumably still waiting in camps.

It is not certain that the Russians would agree to direct aerial evacuation. Soviet military authorities might move the prisoners to British and American forward positions, however, from which they could be flown.

of the Russian zone "on their own" and some were released from the Russian zone before present lines of demarcation between forces from the east and west became more fixed.

Up to May 10—the latest date for corrected overall totals—113,138 British prisoners had been sent back to the United Kingdom, 74,984 of them by air.

On the same date, 63,826 Americans had been brought back to rear areas from camp zones and of these 17,718 were on their way from this theatre back to the United States, or already there.

(This dispatch gave no specific figures for Canadian prisoners freed from camps in the Soviet zone.)

Counting French and others, the armies under Gen. Eisenhower's command had liberated and recovered 182,800 Allied prisoners of war and brought 183,756 of them back by plane.

London, May 14 — (CP) — Diplomatic circles in London predicted last night an early "peace in Europe" meeting of Prime Minister Churchill, President Truman, and Marshal Stalin, followed by a meeting of the "Big Three" would meet in London, France, and the United States, and the President's dispatch correspondent for the Press Association, said Portugal was expected to discuss possible peace and the Japanese situation today when he reaches Washington from San Francisco.

Five Years' Review of War

Prime Minister Churchill's speech on the five years' review of the war with Germany, which closed the annual session of the House of Commons, was the first since the conflict from the time when he was called upon by His Majesty to form a government just five years ago when the war was entered upon with serious phase as the Germans broke through the Low Countries and overran France.

Mr. Churchill recalled the timely aid of rifles and artillery sent Britain by President Roosevelt, the great deeds of the R.A.F. during the Blitz of which at that time he spoke in words which have been repeated around the world by others thousands of times since in reference to the work of the R.A.F. in holding back Hitler, "never in the history of human conflict has so much been owed by so many to so few." Mr. Churchill in his address yesterday drew attention to that phrase by repeating it. He drew on the table in the back of Britain and France for which Mussolini was responsible, the wanton attacks which Hitler began against Poland without provocation, the course of the war in the Mediterranean, the landing in Normandy and the recapture of the Low Countries and the final success of the collapse of Germany. The Prime Minister gave the highest praise to the part that the United States had played in the conflict, the numbers of men, American numbers being three times as many as British and Empire troops pointed to grassy wetlands of the R.A.F. and the British Navy and merchant marine and the great contribution which Russia had made to the crushing of Germany.

Turning to history he noted that Britain had before been tried by tyrants as in the days of Louis Fourteenth, when Spain was the aggressor in Europe and later of Napoleon's aggression, but he noted that when a nation was fighting alone against an aggressor, often would come to its aid, and that in this manner might come to a great mistake as Hitler did in attacking Russia.

The Prime Minister pointed to the fact that the work was not done. There came the settlement of Europe and the knocking out of Japanese tyrants whose war machine was directed at the United States and Britain. Mr. Churchill pointed out that Britain recognized the vast contribution of the United States had made to Allied success and victory and pointed to the mistake made as Italy and Germany declared war on the United States.

Burma

It is pointed out in London that the fall of Rangoon to the Fourteenth Army, assisted by sea and airborne units, brings the complete liberation of Burma near, and that the main British objective in the strategic efforts of this great Japanese defeat is imminent. The re-occupation of Burma had already made possible the breaching of the landward blockade.

The reopening of the communications of the Burmese country, which has been the main port of Rangoon for supplies reaching China by the Burma Road, adds to the already existing direct from India over the Burma Road. Burma was the bulwark to all the Japanese in south-east Asia and its liberation will not only cut the Japanese strategic position in China, but may well loosen the entire Japanese hold between the Chinese border and the Indian Ocean. The political situation in Siam cannot be unaffected, and the French forces residing in Indo-China must be greatly heartened. Malay now lies open to a possible continuation of the Southeast Asian campaign.

By the loss of Burma, Japan has been forced to abandon significant economic as well as military advantages. The difficulties through the loss of Burma, however, the output which they had been capable of in 1941, making a significant contribution to the supply of Japanese forces, were large enough to contribute considerably to the Japanese war effort. Yet, when the hour requires the man to bear great burdens and be wise, by ways that only God can plan. Puller for only he shall rise. Oh, call it destiny or fate. All those Japanese who have been in Burma have been the destruction of the Japanese. In successive disasters in Manipur, Central Burma, Arakan and Lower Burma, the great majority of very large forces, both men and equipment, employed by the enemy in the Burma theatre has been destroyed.

The very high priority given to the Burma campaign has been amply justified. While the principal responsibility and principal effort have been those of the United Kingdom, the forces engaged have included units from a very large number of nations united against Japan, while the equipment and supply of those forces have been the result of co-ordinated industrial endeavor in Britain, India, Australia, and the United States. Perhaps the most remarkable of all is the manner in which the training and organizing troops from the United Kingdom for fighting in a country which they would be required to fight in very ways adverse to their health and physical equipment. In spite of all the difficulties under which the British troops have labored in Burma, the campaign upon this greatest of land fronts against Japan has sent people forward to a successful conclusion at the very moment when the Japanese themselves have been trying to compensate for their losses on the ocean by emphasizing their land strategy on the continent of Asia.

Channel Islands
The Channel Islands, which Mr. Churchill referred to in his broadcast as "outposts," Channel Islands have been liberated and there has been rejoicing on these islands and Britain that they have been freed after the five-year occupation of the enemy. They were the only part of the British Empire which the Germans had succeeded in occupying. Occupation had followed the collapse of France in 1940. The fortitude of the British people and the determination of the British Government to liberate the islands made an interesting story which was revealed the other day.

The islands occupy about 15 square miles in area and form a rocky cluster lying off the northwest coast of France, the largest being Jersey and Guernsey, then Alderney, Sark and Herm and others which are very minute rocky islets. The waters about the islands are dangerous and have been the scene of many wrecks. The climate is mild and equable, the soil rich and fertile and the islands supply a great deal of early vegetables and fruit to the British mainland in ordinary times. Its fisheries of cod, lobster and oyster are important. To many people of the western world the islands are best known for their breeds of cattle, the Jersey and Guernsey.

When the people traced their origin back to the days when the Normans played so prominent a part in the history of Western Europe and England. The islands were British possessions since the accession of William the Conqueror and are the remnants of Britain's ancient Norman possessions.

The people are most industrious and in their tribulations under the enemy proved their staunch courage and endurance. The release from the fallen Nazi regime of Germany was celebrated with all the heartiness of which these brave folk are capable.

Cure for Myths

(New York Times)

If the German mind is capable of learning any lesson, it is hard to see how Germany's overwhelming military defeat can't discourage new poisonous German propaganda. The peace of the world, the legend that in 1918 Germany was not stabbed in the back, German armies were not betrayed. German soldiers were not taken into custody by traitors at home. They were lured into surrender by a person for who lost not time in violating his solemn word.

As things have turned out, Hitler demolished his own case by bringing on a defeat in Germany by the forces of the Allies. He was betrayed in battle and the land laid in ruins. A bag of five to ten million German prisoners are still in the hands of the Allies. It is proof that there has been serious fighting under way.

Barclay took up the valley a short distance and then behind the row of new cars, called Nancy a white girl covering her sandy curls, and a dark man and a woman, was just entering the valley.

A preliminary survey of the impression which Barclay had made on one side about Smoother, told him that the girl, Nancy, was a blonde, in a thin-lipped smile, the blonde of the corner of the eye, in a sharp, pretty little nose, and closed lips.

On Thursday, March 8, the New Commonwealth made the Socialist position clear enough. Across the top of the front page in block capitals, were these words: "C.C.F. to Force Showdown." Below that in a subheading were the words: "Jolliffe Challenges Dry Government."

When he introduced the motion it was heartily proclaimed as a challenge to the Government, although he has complained since

There was no necessity for an election. We have kept our promises. We have assumed 90 per cent of the cost of education. We have made sweeping changes in our educational system. We have introduced sane, progressive legislation in preparation for the great future which, now comes, with such haste

Interrogation Necessary

Perhaps you heard Mr. Hepburn on Saturday night. I hope you did, because if you heard him you will understand a little better how difficult it has been to conduct our business in an orderly manner in the District of Columbia.

Inquiries Necessary

It is a well-known fact that the public has a right to know the truth about the government's financial affairs. It is a well-known fact that the public has a right to know the truth about the government's financial affairs.

ness during the past week, and related it again on Saturday, that one of the most important issues in this election is what he describes as my mass immigration policy. He pictures the possibility of shiploads of distressed people arriving here ahead of our troops. That fantastic nonsense! In the Provincial Conference to discuss matters of this kind, and it was our intention to do everything within our power at that conference to assure that we have a proper system of Family Allowances and the rights of the people of Ontario be protected."

On the position that no large-scale immigration should be permitted until such time as the re-employment of our veterans and munition workers has been assured. We stand with our confidence about the future of this Province and of Canada, and our faith in its expanding production and prosperity, we are confident that the people of this Dominion and Provincial Governments should be invested in legal technicalities, but rather that they should meet around the council table work out their problems and find the very best solution in every case so that their combined power may find full expansion for the advantage of the people of the Dominion.

What of this new party which Mr. Joffe leads? I am going to show you just how new its doctrines are. Let me quote from an old political program. Five short paragraphs will do. The program from which I quote the exact words undertook among other things:

Centralization of the means of communication and transport in the hands of the State.

Extension of factories and instruments of production owned by the State.

Karl Marx Manifesto

Have any of those a familiar

I hope I will not hear any one say that I have even suggested that those who support the C.C.F. Party are Communists. I do not. I know many people who have supported the C.C.F. Party who also hate communism. I am convinced that most of the people who have supported the C.C.F. Party never had the slightest idea told of the same form of state socialism which was advocated by Karl Marx. Perhaps Mr. Jolliffe is not aware of this, but the words of the Communist manifesto are clear enough.

It is far too late to say that the market is not moving. It is moving, and it is moving in the direction of a bull market. The market is moving in the direction of a bull market, and it is moving in the direction of a bull market.

Bracken Promises Square Deal For Canadian Farmers

AMHERST, N.Y., May 13 (CP)—The Progressive-Conservative party, elected to power in the Federal election June 11, will provide for the employment through the co-operation of government and industry, and through that through self-government work. John Bracken, national leader of the party, said today.

Because export trade provided a lot of every day job in Canada, the party would like to see the government take steps to ensure that the war in our country would be a positive to buy Canadian goods.

Mr. Bracken, continuing his tour of the United States, spoke at a meeting in support of Percy Thomas, Progressive-Conservative candidate for Cumberland constituency, and for three other federal constituencies.

Opportunity for Youth
Two of the party's proposals will provide for a square deal for farmers, a square deal for the youth, equality for women, agricultural education, and a square deal for the youth.

The party is also committed to the principle of a square deal for the youth, equality for women, agricultural education, and a square deal for the youth.

FUGITIVE ON A DUDE RANCH

STEPHEN PAYNE

CHAPTER I

However, this was not Nancy's only great worry on this night, and she went on to the radio. Kirk Maxwell had returned to attend to the case of the fugitive in order. He was pondering his own case, and he was sure that his horrid imagination as to what would happen to him if he were caught would be shown on the dude ranch. He had been enjoying pictures of the dude ranch, and he was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out.

The girl darted into the kitchen, and she was sure that she would be able to find a place to hide out. She was sure that she would be able to find a place to hide out. She was sure that she would be able to find a place to hide out. She was sure that she would be able to find a place to hide out.

He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out.

The storm failed however to drive home old Periwinkle, who had been looking out the window. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out.

Yesterday morning that colorful cowboy wrangler had set her back. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out.

"I sort of need a friend," she murmured, and she was sure that she would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out.

"I sort of need a friend," she murmured, and she was sure that she would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out.

Nancy's expression changed. What, on what was coming now? So when they all seemed up and ready to leave, Nancy's expression changed. What, on what was coming now? So when they all seemed up and ready to leave, Nancy's expression changed.

"Oh, a moment's time," he said, and he was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out.

"After that we got engaged and we got married," he said, and he was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out.

"I'll have to think about that," he said, and he was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out. He was sure that he would be able to find a place to hide out.

Had enemy bombs ever fallen on the docks at Hull, Rte. 10, St. Louis, Ont., both Canadians and the United States war industry would have been crippled as the dock yards house one of the most heavily defended areas on the continent for almost two years of this war. Part of the defense mechanism was the fleet of marine balloons shown here floating high over the river and over docks.

KING APPEALS FOR RETURN OF LIBERAL GOVT.

McGowan Vowing to Look for Record During First Year of War

(By CP Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 11 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King's first election speech, delivered here last night, was a plea for the return of the Liberal government to power.

The Prime Minister left for the east shortly after his address and his first speech as the Liberal leader. He is expected to return to the country by the end of the week.

King said the Liberal government would be a government of peace and progress. He said the Liberal government would be a government of peace and progress.

NO 'FRIENDLY' STUFF

The war was not over yet, he said, and it was not friendly stuff to be considered in making a change from government to independent administration.

Strength from All Parties

The Liberal party was the only party which drew substantial strength from every province. It was the only one with a good record of electing members from every province, the only one with any chance of winning an overall majority in the election on June 11.

"Nothing could be more unfortunate for the future of Canada than that no party should have a representative working manhood," said Mr. King.

He had never asked to claim that Canada's war effort was the effort of the government and not the effort of the Canadian people.

The "friendly" stuff that Canada has been getting from the United States and the British Empire is "friendly" stuff, he said.

Speaking informally after his broadcast address, Mr. King said the United Nations Conference at San Francisco "is going to result in bringing about the test of a change to maintain peace once peace is established."

A DREAM COMES TRUE AS THEY LIGHT SMOKE WITH JAP BILLS

When the U. S. soldiers smoked into Jap defiance (right, Sgt. William P. Mahers, Pvt. John L. Lowrey).

They were not to be taken for granted.

CARCANO ARRIVES FROM ARGENTINA

Two trials are needed in diamonds. Without a peak it seems tough to decide how to work them. But players good enough for a title match would consider the diamonds, influenced by two times.

First, Jimmy had not enough tricks to lead a club and also two diamonds from there. Second, no matter which end you lead from, the diamonds are 30-40 with that diamond combination.

It is not too much to expect both the ace and jack of diamonds to west. But they need not both be there. If west has only the jack of diamonds, the club diamonds make two diamond tricks.

South wins the first trick with the heart king and promptly leads the diamond four. If west does not go with the jack, dummy plays the ace. If west has the ace, two diamonds are secured.

If west plays the jack, dummy can win later from the ace. If west has the ace, two diamonds will not be lost with each holding.

Then the jack of aces comes from east, dummy, and declarer leads the club suit with three aces in contrast with three aces in two hearts, two diamonds, and two clubs.

If west has his ace and jack, west will win.

Stella Carcano, followed by her father, Miguel Angel Carcano, stepped down from the plane following his arrival in San Francisco where he is attending the United Nations Conference on International Criminalization. He is the former Argentine ambassador to London, and chairman of the Argentine delegation.

Horse Sense Bridge

LESLION NO. 88

By SAM GORDON

The Editor:

When an expert bridge player has an edge as in his early play. A safety play is the handling of a suit in the safety way. It depends on how certain winning cards are held by whom.

Sometimes a safety play works with what I call the card finesse; meaning in the seventy-seventh direction. An example of it is seen in this deal:

A K 8
A 10 3
K 10 7
A 10 3

WEST
A 10 3
K 10 7
A 10 3
K 10 7

EAST
A 10 3
K 10 7
A 10 3
K 10 7

South is declarer, as a three no-trump contract. The result had from west is the heart queen. There are all other cards in order: hearts, clubs, a seventh trick if the club three wins.

Practically all the responder will be back side in the second Great War is manufacturing from need page.

Ask Your C.C.F. Candidates This One Question:

"Are You or Are You Not Committed to State Socialism for Canada?"

And don't let them evade that question! Insist on a direct "Yes" or "No" answer. If the answer is "No", then they are either misinformed or they are deliberately misrepresenting the facts—because Every C.C.F. candidate must support the party program or be expelled (as has already been done) and the basic plank of the C.C.F. platform is State Socialism.

In case you doubt that statement, here are the exact words taken from the C.C.F. official "Manifesto":

"No C.C.F. Government Will Rest Content Until It Has Eradicated Capitalism and Put Into Operation the Full Program of Socialistic Planning..."

There you have it. So, whether they admit it or not, every C.C.F. candidate is committed to complete State Socialism, and State Socialism spells slavery—social and economic slavery—under an Absolute dictatorship!

Hence, even though a C.C.F. candidate be your minister, or your son's teacher, or a member of the Armed Forces, or a personal friend, you simply cannot vote for him (or her) unless you wish to forfeit the freedom which our boys have fought so desperately to preserve.

WARNING!

Strong efforts will be made to keep you from heeding these messages. You will be told that these advertisements are the voice of the "vested interests"; that the Public Information Association is sponsored and controlled by "Big Business"; that H. A. Trevelyan is the "mouthpiece of Capitalism". Such statements are not merely false but are designed solely to divert you from the ISSUE of State Socialism.

We have received dozens of letters from boys overseas, from farmers, women, workers and others, urging that the people be told the truth about State Socialism—before it is too late. That is the sole purpose of this association. Having told our story we will abide by the verdict of the Voters.

$5,000.00 In Cash Prizes

To encourage Canadians to post themselves on the subject of State Socialism, we are conducting a "quiz" contest open to all Canadian voters. 250 separate cash prizes totaling $5,000.00, ranging from $1,000.00 to $50.00, will be awarded to readers of the booklet "Social Subject". To get a free copy of this booklet, write to the Editor of the Ottawa Citizen, simply send your name and address to Public Information Association, P.O. Box 178, Toronto, Ontario. Also send the names and addresses of boys or girls in the Armed Forces to whom you would like us to send free copies of the booklet, thereby enabling them to get the story of State Socialism, and also to enter the contest. These booklets will be sent without cost or obligation.

Greatest Financial Effort

Canada's Eighth Victory Loan has achieved a new high in loans for all time. Whatever is yet to be added to what had been reported at the weekend will increase the total and the lead over all financial efforts of Canada.

Saturday it was announced that the loan had struck the total of $1,535,517,200, an increase of over $5 million dollars from the previous record at this time in the seventh loan. Both individual and general canvass records are up.

The most telling signs to the fact that the average purchase of individuals was $367.59, an increase of $13.25 over the last loan.

Finance Minister Flinn in reference to the accomplishment of Canadians pointed out the fact that the eighth loan was the first of a V-8 Day did not mislead them into forgetting the tasks that lie ahead before final victory. In his speech at the Ottawa Convention, Mr. Flinn had an opportunity to express their gratitude for the European triumph, as well as a way to hasten the end of the Pacific struggle and to help meet the many domestic and international needs arising from the war.

Mr. Flinn also reminded people that "the need for saving remains continuous and urgent and that through purchase of Victory Bonds and Stamps, they can and should maintain their efforts towards the final objectives which inspired their purchase of these securities."

One of the points of intense satisfaction is the high contribution that the armed forces of Canada overseas made towards the success of the loan, running with some record to hear from as high as $18,675,000.

Canada have a record value of bonds and the value they have grown upon. Never in history has the necessity of purchasing the Dominion's bonds been so great as in the present.

It is a good augury for the future.

Rain and Then Rain

Rain that for twelve days of this month had drenched the country at last halted on Sunday and gave way to a bright day with bright sunlight and Sunday weather with clouds which turned to rain on Sunday night.

It has been estimated that the damage to crops will run into many millions, much of the seed in the ground is reported killed and the seedlings in the ground have been held up by the soggy condition of the ground and fields are covered with water in many places.

The rainfall extending over nearly half the month, was accompanied by weather which rendered normal. The situation has therefore been serious.

In this year when the talk of rehabilitation of Europe has been heard and the feeding of nations which have been stripped of much labor, seed and livestock has been a reality, the weather has been a cruel enemy. The greater the harvests the less difficulty it would be for this work to be carried out successfully. Accordingly, weather and crops while they have attracted the greatest attention in the war years, will still have great implications for everyone during this year and next year too.

When V-3 Site Was Blasted

In his speech a week ago Prime Minister Churchill referred to the final hour when the Germans had planned to inflict upon the British people. It was only . . . when all the preparations being made on the coast of France and Holland could be examined in detail . . . that we knew how grave had been the peril, not from rockets and flying bombs but from multiple long-range artillery which was being prepared for the final hour. Only just in time did the Allied armies blast the weapon in his net. Otherwise the autumn of 1944, so many of us of 1945, would have seen London as shattered as Berlin.

A launching site of Germany's next secret weapon at Minerveque, near Calais, was visited by the British and American forces in quick succession since they were surrounded out the story.

The V-3 site was designed to be a continuous stream of rocket shells on London. The instruments were to be fifty smooth-bore gun barrels, each 600 feet long sunk 350 feet into the chalk hills at an angle of about 55 degrees. The placements for the barrels had been arranged in two batteries of 35 each, both trained on London 95 miles away. If they had ever been completed they probably would have rained rocket shells on London at the rate of ten per minute.

Although no ammunition was found, it is estimated that the shells would have weighed 120 pounds with a fifty-pound warhead. The batteries were apparently they would have been carried to the guns on the standard-gauge railway which had been used to get the shells into the chalk hill through a tunnel 300 yards long.

The tunnel is solid concrete 30 feet high and 55 feet across and has an inclined platform inside the hill. Running off from the platform are chambers and galleries. Small tunnels were planned to be extended from the main tunnel. The whole installation is protected by concrete 18 feet thick covering several acres. If the work had been completed, they would probably have been invulnerable to any bomb yet introduced.

Plans were made for the site for building a V-3 battery of the entrance into the hill is a 4,000 kw. electric generation, also enclosed in a concrete structure.

The whole business was being constructed by the Todt Organisation with slave labor. It is only one of seven large-scale projects which were under construction along the French coast. Others were at Wissembourg, Watten, Löttingen, Birnbaum, and Soltau.

It appears that the proposed German attack on the Channel Islands was intended to express their gratitude for the European triumph, as well as a way to hasten the end of the Pacific struggle and to help meet the many domestic and international needs arising from the war.

Mr. Flinn also reminded people that "the need for saving remains continuous and urgent and that through purchase of Victory Bonds and Stamps, they can and should maintain their efforts towards the final objectives which inspired their purchase of these securities."

One of the points of intense satisfaction is the high contribution that the armed forces of Canada overseas made towards the success of the loan, running with some record to hear from as high as $18,675,000.

"IT'S A GIRL"

Well, once more I shout: "Hooray! It's a girl!"

Seven pounds and more, they say: "It's a girl!"

Once again I want to tell: "Babe and mother doing well!"

"It's a girl!"

Little Ellen heard me shout: "It's a girl!"

Told the neighborhood about it: "It's a girl!"

Little Edger Number Three: "It's a girl!"

Hoped a brother it would be: "It's a girl!"

So I gleefully muttered: "Gee! It's a girl!"

"It's a girl!"

This makes twice the nurse has said: "It's a girl!"

Hurry off and go to bed: "It's a girl!"

Boy and girl it used to be: "It's a girl!"

To come clambering over me: "It's a girl!"

Now the family's up to three: "It's a girl!"

"small business" ISN'T SO SMALL!

Ordinarily one Canadian in every six gainfully employed, earns his livelihood in a "small business." It may be a farm, a store or a lumber yard; an architect's office or a service station. Taken together, these individual enterprises provide a very substantial part of Canada's total jobs—must continue to do so after the war.

During the years ahead many people who dropped small business for war reasons will want to return to their accustomed or new ways of making a living. Thus old businesses will be revived, many new ones will be started by returned men and people now in war industries. The new Industrial Development Bank and the commercial banks, together, afford assurance that no sound credit requirement need be left unscrutinized in the field of small business.

As such businesses grow, they create additional job openings; that has been the pattern of Canadian enterprises. Most large companies began in a small way. And practically all could name some bank which played a part in their growth by providing the loans they needed to finance their day-to-day operations.

Your bank stands ready to serve businesses, small or large, well established or just starting out. Banks do not initiate such businesses—but they do furnish necessary working capital and many other forms of banking service.

Mining Boom Around Yellowknife Has Caused Great Rush to That Area

By R. K. CARNEGIE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 25 (CP)—The mining boom around Yellowknife, Great Slave Lake has caused a great rush to that area that the Mines and Technical Surveys Department today warned that before long persons should make sure they have places to sleep.

Yellowknife, four departments of government have sent additional personnel to handle the situation. Already more than 2,500 persons are in the Yellowknife vicinity, including miners, surveyors, prospectors and business people. More than 100 licenses to operate have been issued to mining companies and about 30,000 mining claims have been registered. It was announced by the Northwest Territories branch of the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys that the province and the federal government are working to coordinate a responsibility of the Dominion government.

The mining department has dispatched a party to survey an addition to the town, but they have been hampered by snow still covering the ground.

The transport department has issued the construction of a 2,000, 000 air strip. In the past airplane landed on the ice in the winter and the water in the summer and each spring and fall was a period when air transportation was delayed.

Public Works Department has a party there arranging to construct wharves and remove obstructions from navigation.

With the shortage of manpower, complaints have reached Ottawa of companies obtaining one another for hired help and the labor department has been in a representative of collective service to negotiate on the situation.

The long spring break-up has complicated the movement of supplies which will be brought in by air as neither the ice roads nor winter transportation now is available to arrive early in June.

Plans for extending hotel and other accommodation will have to await the coming of navigation. Then supplies will move by rail to Yellowknife, after by boat down the Athabasca River, across Lake Athabasca to the Slave River and on to Ft. Resolution, a 10-mile portage and continue to Great Slave Lake.

With the mining companies taking all the lumber products in the vicinity, officials here said, the building of additional houses and business places must await the arrival of the boats. One complication is that gold mining does not enjoy any priority, which makes it difficult to obtain building materials.

The town has its own council authorized by the Dominion government.

Three Divisions.

The supply fleet is in three general categories:

1. Large ships, which are complete air depots, have possibly 5,000 different items ready to land.

2. Barges, which the floating depots have cargo-to-land stores and are towed into newly-acquired areas.

3. Small cargo vessels, which travel between bases and keep stocks equalized according to fleet needs. They serve as warehouses.

The latest touch is a rapid ship board the large vessels for the benefit of newly-landed shore-based air units.

The barges not only serve during the establishment of shore facilities but stay in areas in which no permanent land facilities are to be constructed.

The latest trend of the war is to use more mobile warfare, particularly for offensive operations. The strategy of shore to shore is to supply operations in a system of rapid mobility.

Operations are maintained within safe limits at all times, and transportation carriers work in close directions. Their inland land includes Allied personnel on route.

Ingenuity, Daring Planning and Sweat Involved in Air Supply Work

His action will bring about that Britain's first general election in ten years early in July. He had said the office since May 1940 when he succeeded Robert Chamberlain during the darkest days of the war.

Mr. Churchill's resignation was precipitated by the Labour Party's decision to continue in the Coalition government, now that Germany is defeated.

An old-fashioned political campaign strategy was under way, with the opposition press lampooning the Prime Minister.

Last Election in 1935

In the last election in 1935, the voters returned old Conservatives to power. Mr. Churchill is leader of the Conservative party. The second largest group in the Labour party, led by Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

Since the Churchill government ceased to exist with Mr. Churchill's resignation, there will be no question of waiting for the resignation of the minister, either Mr. Churchill or Mr. Chamberlain.

Preceded by Mr. Churchill's resignation, the Labour party now remains in the government or a national referendum on the question of remaining in the government.

Labour's action against the break-up of the coalition government was followed by Mr. Churchill in the days of Dunkerque, after the evacuation.

At the measure's report city of Blackpool, 1,200 Labour party delegates already had signed a mandate to their ministers in the government to step out, if the issue was laid down at this time in order of fight on election.

Mr. Churchill yesterday, in a letter to Mr. Attlee, rejecting Labour's proposal that the Coalition government should continue until after the war, said that the world would be left in a state of confusion if the coalition government were dissolved.

Under an agreement of the War Cabinet, three weeks will elapse before the King formally will dissolve parliament. In this time Britain's

DEMILITARIZATION

In carrying out the demobilization of Canada's Armed Forces the prime consideration should be the interest of those who have served. Demobilization should be based on the principle that members of the Armed Forces should not be discharged until their economic security is assured by placement in a useful occupation or by assisted training and education to that end.

Here, in this simple statement of progressive, realistic policy is the only true solution of the fundamental problem which every ex-serviceman and woman is faced. It is the only assurance of a square deal for all veterans. It is the very basis of the Rehabilitation Policies of the Progressive Conservative Party. No veterans will be discharged against his will until he is assured of a decent livelihood.

"Plottings will not fill empty stomachs," declares John Bracken, "nor generalities provide jobs for those who have fought, nor empty declarations about sacrifice ease the food of widows and children whose husbands and fathers gave life security."

Throughout the war, Canadian service men and women have had their full plattitudes and generalities. Let our veterans now ask themselves this question: Does the spirit of the Rehabilitation Policies of the Government have consistently manifested in time of peace, the assurance of a square deal for veterans in time of peace?

Election News

is another "D" For Canada

Just one year ago this June the results of the election were in the balance for a few hours, when the vast armed forces of the United States invaded the coast of Normandy. It was the greatest battle in the history of the world.

And now, on Monday, almost one year to the day, Canadians will go to the polls to elect a new government. It is a very important day for Canada.

So, in essence, Monday is another "D" Day for Canada—a day that will decide the destiny of this nation for years to come.

The C.C.F. is a party that stands for freedom. It is a party that stands for the rights of the individual. It is a party that stands for the rights of the worker.

Britain and U.S. Seek Amicable Solution of Crisis

France in Position She Must Choose One of Two Courses

By HENRY WHEELER PARIS, May 29 (AP)—The middle-eastern French manufacturers of arms and munitions by the Axis League, appeared to be in a position to choose one of two courses, either to continue the delivery of arms to the French, or to stop.

An diplomatic source in London expressed the view that France has two courses to follow—either to continue to supply arms to the French, or to stop. It is not clear if it is necessary or not to stop
the supply of arms to the French, but it is clear that France must choose one of two courses.

At London and in Washington, the diplomatic sources are aware that the French are in a position to choose one of two courses, either to continue to supply arms to the French, or to stop.

The French were reported to have the main strain of stress under international, yesterday, when French artillery ships had been sunk in the English Channel, and the French government had been forced to evacuate its capital.

At Hama, best available estimates in Damascus placed the casualties at about 200, including a number of French soldiers. The French army had been in a position to choose one of two courses, either to continue to supply arms to the French, or to stop.

The situation was viewed in London as rapidly involving the French in a position to choose one of two courses, either to continue to supply arms to the French, or to stop.

West Paul Independence
Although some intentions of the French were reported to have been to continue to supply arms to the French, it is not clear
if it is necessary or not to stop
the supply of arms to the French.

LET US LOOK TO THE FUTURE!

THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE PARTY is not seeking votes on discontent occasioned by the past. Its eyes are on the shining future of this great Province of Ontario.

THE DREW GOVERNMENT has two years of fine legislation behind it. Some of these plans were not completed because the Hepburn-Joffe-MacLeod axis "ganged up," and forced an election on this Province. Give George Drew a chance to carry out these plans. One good dream deserves another.

THE DREW GOVERNMENT has reduced your School Taxes by 50% and in some Rural Schools 95% of the cost of maintenance is absorbed. This one piece of legislation, which has put money in your pocket, should entitle George Drew to another term.

A Vote for Robson is a Vote for Drew and further legislation to ease your tax burden

The achievements of the Drew Government, although hampered by a sniping opposition, cannot be told in this small space. In the field of Agriculture, Education, Labor, Highways, Health, Lands and Forests, and Public Welfare, great strides have been made. The job is only started. Let George Drew finish it!

Vote Robson on June 4th And Re-elect the Progressive Drew Government!

Waterloo Bridge Crosses Rhine
Lithonia's "temporary" Waterloo Bridge that was used for seventeen years until the permanent Waterloo Bridge was opened in 1942, now spans the Rhine at Remagen.

It was dismantled and shipped across the Channel after the capture of Antwerp in readiness for an emergency.
At the time when the Remagen Bridge was still the Allies only bridge across the Rhine - collapsed soon after it had been taken by U. S. troops. Special troops were the demolition men at Remagen, section by section, and army engineers worked night and day under enemy fire to rebuild it over the Rhine.

Within a week tanks, guns, trucks and men were pouring over Waterloo Bridge and on into Germany.

Without Moral Courage

It is pointed out in the Ottawa Journal as a notable fact "that no ranking officer has been rebuffed in his right of sign of moral courage or readiness to face before the world the consequences of his act."

Not one has come forward to justify what Nazi and militaristic Germany has done. The whole crowd of them have it seems a sorry sight before the world, the Nazi regime members have shown themselves completely without work and without justify their actions but by further cruelty and atrocities against those who could not help.

It was a band of gangsters, everyone of whom would do anything to save his life and many of them taking the easy way out as they considered, by turning their hands against their own lives. Men who did the deeds they did callously and without the slightest remorse were in terror as they seen by the fact that several of those who ended their lives carried the same drug in their pockets for fear they had prepared for it.

The Journal says that "the German leaders have been cowardly and unmanly. That can well be for a man like Hitler had no love for anything but to have the will to conquer power unconditionally."

One has never heard of one good deed of these men for "their concern was with death and greed and not with life. Theirs were the morals of the thieves' kitchen. They were a pack of thugs and scoundrels operating on the principle of swiftness, and when their system was broken, they had to sustain them no real patriotism, no pride, no dignity, they were just fear - a fear of justice and retribution."

In this there have been endless acts of heroism performed by men of the United Nations' armies and peoples for love of country and for home and a high ideal but nothing like that was found for fighting the sold men at the helm of Germany. Their job was to rob and they were arrogant towards all who were in face with the possibility of punishment.

History is full of the record of men who saved the world from the rule of a mad principle, for country and for mankind. That ideal was greater than death and annihilation.

But the Nazi gang went out the unbroken and cringing way, that of the coward and no hope of the Hereafter, dyed as they have been in the blood of millions of innocents.

The Nazi gang is one of the strongest development in the history of the world and power and exercised it and attracted men of sinister minds who would do any deed for loot and tyranny and the exercise of their rule upon others.

The Two Great Queens

Since the spring of 1940 the Crowned White Star Line's two great Queens, Mary and Elizabeth, have stemmed over 250,000 miles and have made 36 journeys round the world - carrying 1,250,000 fighting men of the United States.

When the war broke out in Europe, the "Queen Mary" was outward-bound to the United States from Southampton. All through the autumn and winter she lay by New York where her wartime role was being debated.

The "Queen Elizabeth," launched in September, 1938, was meanwhile being completed at Clydebank. Her presence there aroused the Government's wrath, for not only did she present a sitting target to enemy planes, thus endangering the entire shipped, but her hull must look up space that was needed urgently for aircraft. In February, 1940, the Admiralty requested that she should leave the Clyde at the earliest possible date and "remain away from the British fleet." It was decided to send her to New York.

For the casual observer the impression was given that the "Queen Elizabeth" was to sail from the Clyde to Southampton to be dry-docked. The crew of the ship, arriving in Southampton, were to be transferred to a graving-dock to be prepared and a crew was signed for the coastwise journey. Three days later, following her trials at the Clyde shore leave was stopped and the crew was told that the ship's real destination was not Southampton, but New York. The ship afterwards the arrived safely in New York, to berth alongside the "Queen Mary."

The wartime captain of the "Queen" as troop transports began in the spring of 1941. Their massive grey hulls became familiar sights from Sydney to Rome, in Africa, Arabia and Rio de Janeiro. Then, with the entry of the United States into the war, they began their long service as transports for American troops.

On recent voyages from America to the United States, the "Queen" has carried an average of 15,000 United States soldiers - corresponding in numbers to an Army division of every trip. British return these shipping services under reverse loads, without any cash payment by the United States.

Why be Mystified?

(Christian Science Monitor, Boston)

Apparently many people are anxious or becoming mystified about the question as to what has become of Hitler and some of his despicable crew. The "Queen Mary" has been in the news almost disappointed when facts end its startling uncertainties. Possibly Hitler hoped that his temporary disappearance would lead his enemies into a labyrinth of lies.

But we need not assist in that enterprise. The world has been too much occupied with the "Queen Mary" to give it the attention which shall not go unpunished" confident that justice will catch up with him - "if it is not too late."

The rest we would do well to refuse to be mystified about. It is instead sufficient that other statement from the Scriptures: "There is nothing covered that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known."

The Price

To the end of the fighting in Europe this war has cost Canada $7,200 million in action and $7,200 million in price. This is the blood of almost six years of fighting. It is a high price for a country of 13 million people.

The cost of the war is much lower than the total of $2,817 paid the First Great War. Of 25 years ago paid the First Great War. SAFETY FIRST WHEN CHILD ABOUT

Babies are curious. They want to know the inside of everything, and if you push up a can, the chances are 10 to 1 that the contents will be investigated, as only a baby can investigate by crawling under it, or by reaching. Parents should, never, never be left where a child can reach them. Closing equipment such as stoves, or other electric appliances should be kept in a locked cupboard. Many children under five years of age die every year, through this cause alone.

Damascus, June 20.—Mr. Eden said the British government had been bombed from the air and subjected to heavy concentrated shelling after British and United States civilians were evacuated. The British minister in Paris declared that the British government would do its utmost to help the French people.

The British government, Mr. Eden said, "is not only in touch with our military forces."

Mr. Eden said an estimate was arranged with French military authorities yesterday afternoon and British and United States civilian colonies were evacuated from Damascus.

"After that," he added, "the order of the city was subjected to the heaviest and most concentrated shelling yet directed upon it."

... from Abraham Lincoln

To Voters: Wise Words of WARING!

Those who are being hypnotized by the Jewish promises in the C.C.F. program of State Socialism should bear in mind that this "visionary Utopia" is almost as old as Methuselah. Almost a century ago Abraham Lincoln, familiar with poverty and discouragement said: "That some should be rich shows that others may become rich, and hence is worthy encouragement to industry and enterprise. . . . Let not him who is homeless plow down the house of another, but let him labor diligently to build one for himself, thus, by example, assuring that his own shall be safe from violence. . . . It is best for all to leave each man free to acquire property as fast as (he really) can. Some will get wealthy. I don't believe in a law to prevent a man from getting rich. It would do more harm than good."

... and from Winston Churchill

On May 4th, 1903, more than a third of a century ago, came this warning:

"When we are told to exalt and admire a philosophy which destroys individualism and seeks to replace it by collectivism, I say that this is a most grotesque and unbecoming conception, which can find no real foothold in the brains and hearts—and the hearts are trustworthy—the brains—in the hearts of sensible British people."

"The Socialists put before us a creed of universal self-sacrifice. They tell us that we should dwell together in unity and comradeship. But they preach it in the language of spite and envy, of hatred and uncharitableness."

There, from the lips and hearts of two patriots, comes the warning of democracy—a gospel which needs now to be spread again before the conditions of every class and creed—for the simple reason that it is founded on plain, common-sense.

On election day Canadians will be asked to decide whether or not they want Canada to embrace "State Socialism"—hence they should appreciate its meaning and OBJECTIVE.

Good-bye Freedom!

Briefly the Socialists propose that we turn over to the C.C.F. politicians not merely the running of our government, but complete and permanent control of our everyday lives. They would control and regulate all production of farm products; all manufacture of goods; all distribution and pricing; all planning of employment, wages, etc. They propose to do this gradually, starting with banks, insurance companies, and "Big Business", but eventually the "State" (which are the present C.C.F. candidates) would regulate everything to fit into their so-called "National Plan". Any such plan certainly would be carried out under an absolute dictatorship—either by one man or a small group (as in Italy, Germany and Russia). In its execution three out of every five citizens would probably end up working for the government, and one in every five would be a government "cop" checking up on us to make sure we stayed in line. That's what "State Socialism" means.

So, Vote AGAINST C.C.F.!

Hence if you want to preserve your liberty of action—your individual freedom—where to work—where to live—where and how to spend your money, you simply cannot vote for ANY C.C.F. candidate—even though he be your personal friend—because every C.C.F. candidate is definitely committed to that program. If he falters or wavers in his support of it he is expelled—as has happened already. So get out and vote—against the C.C.F. candidates, everyone you know to do the same, Let's not destroy this threat of dictatorship once and for all!

GROW YOUR OWN' SILK STOCKINGS SAYS B.C. WOMAN

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
Vancouver, May 31 (CP)—A one-woman silk industry is flourishing in this tiny hamlet and across the forested hills of the British Columbia Coast's Mountain Range.

Three years ago Mrs. Elizabeth Glendreich suddenly realized her aged children were grown up and that, as a grandmother with 11 grandchildren and nine grandchildren she had too much spare time on her hands. The job of looking after her fruit and vegetable farm just didn't seem big enough to keep her busy. It was then she decided to return to the hobby she developed years ago as a young girl in her native Russia—silk-rearing.

It was in those days that I made her bright-colored scarves and neckties and aprons from the silk which my silkworms gave me," Mrs. Glendreich recalled.

But Mrs. Glendreich was one of several women who came to Canada 20 years ago. At one time she lived in Moscow, and later in London, B.C., before immigrating to Canada.

After much inquiry through the Canadian Consulate, three women saw Mrs. Glendreich make a pair of 100 silkworms eggs for $10, the planned silkworms were in her hands and then had a surprise: she had a good old-fashioned spinning wheel.

It wasn't long before she was spinning her first threads of silk, and a few weeks later she had knitted one of her sons a pair of silk socks.

Durable Socks.

Despite present stocking shortages, Mrs. Glendreich has been very successful in the realm of silk. She has made a pair of silk socks for her son and a pair of silk socks for her daughter.

Says Woman Voter Does Not Realize Power She Holds

By HELEN BARNSTEDMAN (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 31 (CP)—This year's Dominion election is an extra special one for John Denson, executive secretary of the National Progressive Conservative Party. He says it is by far the most exciting one he has seen since he came to the party in 1921.

Now in the thick of his fourth election campaign, Denson, 45, is a white-haired man with a friendly, smiling face. He is the son of a blacksmith and a teacher. He is a member of the party's publicity staff and will be in charge of the party's election campaign.

"This election is different," he said. "There is a larger interest in it than in the others I've seen, and it's most encouraging."

Mr. Denson has no spare stores of information about the ways of elections and election campaigns, which he picked up in 1925, 1930 and 1935.

He missed the 1930 election because at that time he was private secretary to the late Premier B. J. Brudenell of British Columbia.

He arrived back in the capital in time for the shooting in 1935, but missed the campaign.

Next time together.

"The great thing is to be in the women out into politics, and have them vote, and stick together. Women voters have a great deal more power than they realize," he said.

Part of her philosophy is that all work and no play makes ill. It is the truth in it. "When things go well or go wrong, they are your own."

In her spare time Mrs. Denson is a member of the National Progressive Conservative Party. She is a member of the party's publicity staff and will be in charge of the party's election campaign.

Nimitz Promises the Royal Navy Will be in on Kill of Jay Fleet

By DAVID BROWN
Albion, N. H., May 11 (AP)—

Admiral Nimitz, U. S. Pacific commander-in-chief, said today that the United States Navy will be in on the kill of the Japanese battleship Yamato, which is expected to be sunk by the British Royal Navy.

The battleship came to Okinawa, where it was seen by the Western Pacific, so that Vice-Admiral Nimitz, U. S. Pacific commander-in-chief, could order his Admiral Nimitz, U. S. Pacific commander-in-chief.

"I am very sorry to say I cannot hold out any prospects of your getting these big guns on any Japanese battleships, as I do not think they will come off, or do so," he said.

"But what you can do is carry your guns and pickers up to where they can reach the Japanese ships in hitting and catch them off, or do so. You can carry your guns up to where the last Japanese merchant ship can be seen, and finally you will undoubtedly get them."

Source of Aroma in Tobacco Found In Tiny Hairs on Surface of Leaves

By HOWARD W. BLACKBURN
(Associated Press Science Editor)

Durham, N. C., May 11 (AP)—The source of the aroma of tobacco has been found at Duke University in tiny hairs that cover both sides of the leaf.

This discovery opens a new chapter in the study of the improved or intensified tobacco aroma, which has been known for a great many years. The Duke University study of the source of the aroma of tobacco, which is the most important of tobacco products.

Dr. Frederick A. Wolf, professor of chemistry, was making field studies on tobacco leaves during a recent summer. He was each day a pair of gloves for working in the tobacco fields. There is a gum on all growing tobacco plants which gets on the hands and clothes.

When the summer ended he packed the gloves up and took them to the lab. He found that the gloves were still sticky with the gum.

He was not until two months later that he had occasion to open this compartment. As he lifted the cover, a wave of aroma rose. It was like opening a whole hoghead of cured tobacco.

The aroma was incredible, because there was no tobacco in the compartment. Or was there? Dr. Wolf looked and there wasn't, but when he unrolled the gloves with the sticky gum on them, the source of aroma was clear.

The old working pair clearly had the essence of tobacco on them. This incident concentrated attention on the tobacco leaf hairs, already known to be the source of the gum. The hairs are called the "gum hairs."

Dr. Wolf found that the hairs are from 10,000 to 50,000 in number on each leaf. They cover both sides of the leaf. The hairs are of a tiny gland, which produces the gum.

All varieties of tobacco have the hairs. The number of hairs from species to species. The hairs are not the same. The hairs are not the same. The hairs are not the same.

The difference in aromatic substances and in the way they are produced shows that heredity is one of the factors in the tobacco perfume. Heredity is also modified by breeding in plants, or by breeding from wild tobacco plants, growers and tobaccoists may want to select for the hairs of a new smoking aroma.
